Patrick Kavanagh Centre

The Kavanagh Centre tells the story of Inniskeen's most famous son – the poet, Patrick Kavanagh using immersive and interactive techniques to inspire visitors. There are 6 key zones in the exhibition and these focus on different times/aspects of Kavanagh's life. A multi-media experience provides the emotional core of the exhibition with its visuals and sound effects and this is also used as a performance space for concerts and dramas. Very few writers have rooted their work so physically in recognisable fields and buildings as Kavanagh did and many of these places still exist. Visitors are encouraged to follow the Kavanagh Trail which takes in a number of these sites. This November, Kavanagh is commemorated with the annual Patrick Kavanagh Weekend in the poet's hometown.

Celebrating the Legacy of Project Children

AT CASTLE LESLIE ESTATE, we are proud to support initiatives that celebrate peace, reconciliation, and community. One such initiative, close to many hearts in Ireland and the United States, is Project Children.

Founded in 1975 by Denis Mulcahy, an NYPD officer originally from Cork, Project Children began with a simple yet powerful idea: to give children from Northern Ireland, both Catholic and Protestant the chance to spend a summer in the United States away from the conflict of the Troubles. By living with host families, these young people were able to enjoy normal everyday experiences, build friendships across divides, and see what life could look like beyond the shadow of conflict.

Over the four decades that followed, Project Children grew into a remarkable program. More than 23,000 children and young adults benefitted, not only through summer placements but also through internships, scholarships, and educational opportunities. The impact was profound, fostering understanding, breaking down barriers, and leaving a legacy of hope that continues to resonate today. Fifty years on from the inception of this iconic program, they are pleased to report that the history, records, memorabilia, and stories of Project Children will be archived and housed at the newly constructed Monaghan Peace Campus. The Peace Campus will serve as an educational and cultural hub. Its mission will be to provide a venue for workshops, seminars, and activities designed to build bridges between different communities, particularly those affected by the legacy of conflict in Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland. See: www.projectchildren.org

To mark its 50th anniversary, Project Children will host several meaningful events this October with Castle Leslie Estate being a proud sponsor.

Castle Leslie Estate honours the vision of Project Children and the thousands of families and volunteers who made it possible. This autumn, we celebrate its enduring message: that kindness, opportunity, and shared experiences can change lives.

ESTABLISHED IN 2015, The Leslie Foundation is a not-for-profit organization founded with a mission to foster regenerative, sustainable land-use and social innovation spanning ecological, cultural, and community spheres. Its overarching vision is “to rebalance our relationship with our land to collectively restore our futures,” driven by the integration of nature, heritage, people, and culture. The foundation acts as a bioregion, using regenerative design principles to pilot nature-based solutions, ecosystem-based adaptations, and social innovations across its landscapes—natural, agricultural, and economic to build climate resilience and communal well-being. Overseen by a board of seven trustees, chaired by Kate Burns (an expert in business and natural resource planning), with trustees including environmental scientists, heritage specialists, and a representative from Castle Leslie Estate, the foundation was formally launched by Castle Leslie Estate in 2017 to ensure that the social and economic benefits generated by the estate could continue and grow across future generations, focusing on the four P’s: people, place, planet, and peace. The Leslie Foundation offers an innovative model of regenerative land stewardship, using our estate to pilot systems that blend environmental restoration, social collaboration, and cultural preservation.
